

8 March 1967

MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

STAT
STAT
1. About 15 February, Elizabeth, in the DCI's office, said she had received a call from [redacted] who is writing a graduate thesis on some aspect of intelligence and wished some assistance. I called [redacted] and advised that Mr. Helms' office had turned the matter over to me and he sent me the attached correspondence on 18 February.

STAT
2. On 7 March, I spoke to [redacted] apologizing for the delay in getting back to him. I said that there was really nothing we could tell him on the subject, because of the high classification attendant on matters of this kind.

STAT
STAT
3. I suggested that [redacted] write to William R. Harris at Harvard Center for International Affairs, without mentioning our name, as Mr. Harris was producing a bibliography on intelligence with sections on electronic intelligence and on disarmament and inspection intelligence. These sections of the Harvard bibliography contain a good number of titles not on [redacted] bibliography. I also pointed out to him, in connection with his syllabus, that while there might be new and esoteric means for intelligence collection, this in no way reduced classical need for careful evaluation and analysis and estimating of the material collected.

[redacted]
Walter Pforzheimer
Curator
Historical Intelligence Collection

Attachment
As noted above.